

MARYLAND FOREIGN LANGUAGE ASSOCIATION
2018 MARYLAND LANGUAGE TEACHER OF THE YEAR

NOMINATION FORM

Maryland Foreign Language Association (MFLA) is proud to announce the Maryland Language Teacher of the Year competition. The Maryland recipient will compete at the Northeast Conference on the Teaching of Foreign Languages (NECTFL) in February 2019 for the Regional Language Teacher of the Year. The American Council on the Teaching of Foreign Languages (ACTFL) will then choose a finalist to be named the National Language Teacher of the Year at their annual conference in November of 2019.

The award has been developed to honor the field of language teaching and elevate the status of our profession at the state, regional, and national levels. It also offers opportunities to highlight the importance of becoming proficient in other languages and cultures.

APPLICATION PROCESS:

Each year, the road to becoming the National Language Teacher of the Year begins at the state level with the state language organization's selection of a top candidate each year whose application is then submitted to the regional level. The finalist for each of the five regions then competes at the national level. The process outlined within this document is designed to facilitate the development of the portfolio used in the evaluation process by requiring certain items at each level of competition leading toward the complete portfolio required at the national level. This process is intended to incrementally add the required elements of the portfolio at each level and to assist candidates with building a portfolio that best represents their teaching accomplishments and ability to represent their profession. ACTFL will supply the forms and samples needed so that candidates understand what is required at each level. In addition, there is a detailed explanation of all portfolio items on the ACTFL website at www.actfl.org.
